Full Throttle Override is a utility that improves productivity by helping you optimize system performance in Windows. Increase your CPU frequency with the click of a button. The program will increase frequency only for the programs you choose. To select a target program, use the list of programs maintained by the program. By default, the program starts in Turbo mode and this is the maximum allowed. The program also allows you to set the power plan for when the program is running. Switch between power plans, and save to the settings menu as well. When a program is selected to be throttled, its processor frequency is increased by the software. In Turbo mode, Full Throttle Override boosts the frequency of all programs, even those that you have not chosen. The program works by monitoring all programs in the system. The operating system clock can be increased or decreased while the program is running. You can even choose to remove the Windows window manager clock. When using the Turbo mode, the program identifies the programs that are using the most CPU processing power in the system. For all of them the frequency is increased. You can select the programs to be monitored. Set the minimum frequency in order to increase the frequency of the system. Full Throttle Override keeps track of all programs and analyzes their performance. You can choose to add a shortcut in the Startup folder to have the program ready by the time you reach the desktop. Advanced users can also use the Task Scheduler to run the program with highest privileges.

The best part of the offer is that the PC tune-ups are completely free of charge, and that I will not charge any fees for the service as I feel that it would be unethical of me to do so, considering that most of the people who use this program are from the developing world. Planetside 2 is back! The French developer releases a new online shooter with modes such as deathmatch and CS, new items, community items, and a new crossplay system that allows players from Europe to play together with players from all over the world. The most recent patch, Season 7, which was released in February, revolves around the new public quest "Green Light", which allows players to unlock lots of new goodies, including various items, as well as new features and game content for several participating companies. It appears that the update will continue to affect the game with even more content in the future, as the newest patch, Patch 7.1, was released this past week. For the uninitiated, Planetside 2 is an online game set on a galactic map, in which factions of players must band together to claim and defend a large amount of territory. The game offers vehicles, ranging from combat vehicles and fighter planes to gunships and naval vessels, as well as a variety of weapons, gadgets, armor, and skills, which can then be enhanced through use and improvement. All of the battles you participate in are served by a robust leaderboard system, allowing players to see who has the most kills, and who is the best pilot. Moreover, players can also make use of the Command Menu, which is an in-game menu system, featuring a calendar, news, an assortment of menus, and even an extensive list of weapons. The Command Menu can be accessed from inside the game's interface, and also from outside the game by using the CAPS LOCK key, and by accessing the menu when you are in possession of the nano-warhead. The latest patch, Patch 7.1, includes a number of changes, primarily revolving around the "Green Light" quest, as well as a slew of bug fixes and improvements. The most notable change in this patch is the first new aircraft in several patches, the all-new Chargebrute, which is a slow-moving weapons platform with a large payload. Other new items include the Charge X-34 AS7, a radar-guided anti-armor weapon, and the Failbrite, a new vehicle that has the ability to eject cargo pods, each of which contains a canister that is detonated once the pod is ejected. PvE & PvP gamemodes are both present, allowing players to unlock additional content. The patch is set to release on 09e8f5149f
